A Word From Our Board

PLRM students at Western have an independent entrepreneurial spirit fueled by the great outdoors in this most magnificent natural resource setting. Core values and traits learned in the Gunnison/Crested Butte area translate into the core values that define leaders in the world of professional landmen. These core values include self-confidence, courage, teamwork, leadership, tenacity, perseverance, and risk/reward balance. PLRM graduates will interact on a daily basis with geologists, engineers and financiers to collaboratively achieve exciting results in real time to access the resources they steward.

From the Rockies to Pennsylvania, PLRM graduates tell tales of exhilarating early careers with much “Gunnison” blue sky ahead of them.

Putting Your Dollars to Work
Energy Elevated

Initiating the curriculum in 2008 and housed in Western’s business program, PLRM is a privately funded multi-disciplinary emphasis that draws on some of the most interesting and challenging courses across several programs. The degree program was developed with direct cooperation with industry professionals with the shared goal of graduating the most prepared land professionals in the country.

We educate pioneers who do not shy away from a challenge. A career as a land professional is not for the entitled, timid or easily discouraged. Our students choose Western because they have a drive to push themselves and have forged resilience by climbing 14ers, skiing, working two jobs while taking a full course-load in an unforgiving climate – and loving every minute of it.
